

New books

The Little Ghosts of the Crystal Garden

The Patakis publishing house and bookstore in downtown Athens (65 Academias) will be hosting a special event for kids on Saturday, October 2. In addition to learning about the publishing house's new titles, youngsters will be able to listen to stories and take part in role-playing and other games.

Participants will also have the opportunity to meet children's author Eleni Dikaiou, who will read excerpts from her new book, "Ta fantasmatakia tis gialinis avlis" (The Little Ghosts of the Crystal Garden). The event starts at noon.

For information, call 210.381.1850.

No Matter What

The Emotions Museum of Childhood (Karatza & Tsami Karatasou, Philopappou) will be hosting a presentation on Saturday, October 2, featuring Filippos Mandilaras's Greek translation of Scottish author Debi Glori's best-selling children's book "No Matter What" (Tha s'agapo o'ti ki an gini), published by Patakis. The event will include a reading of this wonderful story about unconditional love between parents and children, a crucial message that constantly needs to be reinforced. The presentation starts at 1 p.m. but try to get there earlier to take a look at the museum's current exhibition, "Who Am I?" Admission costs 4 euros.

For further details and registrations, call 210.921.8329.

GET IN TOUCH

Readers are invited to send their fun ideas and comments to kids@athensplus.gr.